Dr. O'Meagher Walting for the Relatives to Authorize an Analysis.

Deputy Coroner O'Meagher said to-day that the portions of Mrs. Catherine C. Valentine's body which were retained for analysis are still in his possession. No analysis can be made until relatives of the dead woman go before the District-Attorney and make affidavits that they believe that her death was not due to natural causes. The analysis will take from three to four weeks. Personally Dr. O'Meagher is satisfied that the woman died from the causes revealed by the autopsy. The date of the inquest has not been fixed.

Mr. Horace Secor, ir., said to an Evening Wolld reporter that he had not communicated with Mrs. Valentines relatives. Her parents live in Saratoga county. Her sister lives in New Jersey. An accounting of the property left by the late Brewster Valentine will be made before the Surrogate of Pulnam county, where the will was probated. Young Ludlow Valentine's interests will be cared for by Mesars, Lewis and Bergen, the executors. be made until relatives of the dead woman go

MRS. FISHER'S JURY HUNG BY A CURIOUS DILEMMA.

All Thought She Should Have Compensation from the City for Her Injuries, and Eleven Agreed on the Amount-One Man Sticks Out for His Own Opinion-Compil-

The damage suit of Mrs. Lophemia J. Fisher for $20,000 against the city, which has peen on trial for a week past before Judge Barrett, in the Supreme Court, came to a singular close to-day. All the jury agreed that the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict, but could not agree as to the amount, one juror standing out against

The jury were kept locked up until 10 o'clock last night, in charge of Court Officers Arnold and Hebbard. At that hour, as there seemed no possibility of agreeing, they were discharged. To-day they came into court and told Judge Barrett how they stood.

" If," said one juror to the Court, " you feel inclined to instruct as to what you would consider adequate compensation, it is the only way this one gentleman can be made to agree. It is the first time this man has ever served on a jury."

"I can't give you any assistance," said Judge Barrett. "I can only instruct you in the law."

the law."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Wellman, who tried the case for the city, objected to the jury being returned to their room because they had already been discharged. Mr. Willman said that he had been told that some of the jury had talked to witnesses for the plaintiff since their discharge. The jury denied this.

the plantin since their discharge. The jury denied this.

"The trouble is," said another juror, "between conscience and evidence. One or two men put their conscience ever evidence and consider that if their conscience tells them so it must be so, without regard to the evidence. We might agree if the Court will tell whether conscience or evidence should prevail."

whether conscience or evidence should prevail."

"We feel very indignant against one man who has stood out," said another juror. "He has really brought no argument to bear upon the controversy."

Juror Dean then declared that the charges of Mr. Wellman were totally unfounded and demanded that he be compelled to state where he got his information, and intimated that he believed he didn't have any,

"Mr. Fitzgerald, an attache of the Corporation Counsel office," said another juror. "followed three of us down the street last night and wanted to know the verdiet."

The matter ended by the jury being discharged. The obstinate juror was Ernst Finckelstaedt.

GOOD BOTH WAYS IF GOOD AT ALL.

Mr. John McGinn Thinks the Term "Criminal Lawyers" Should Be Abolished.

"No such distinction should be made, said Lawyer John McGinn to an Evening World reporter. He was referring to the term " criminal lawyer." " Where it originated nobody can tell," he continued. "If a man is a good lawyer he is good in criminal cases as well as in civil. Take all the prominent men at the Bar to-day-Fullerton, inent men at the Bar to-day—Fullerton, Dougherty, Ingersoll and the like—all are good lawyers in criminal practice, yet no one ever hears them called criminal lawyers.

"Of course, where a man makes a study of criminal matters exclusively, it is natural that the title of criminal lawyer should be given him, though few good attorneys can afford to sacrifice their office or civil work for the criminal. There is no money in it.

"Again, if there is a criminal case in which a man of means is involved, does the defendant employ the so-called criminal lawyer? No, indeed; he engages men who have no such distinction, men whose ability is not limited to the trial of petty criminals, and he is right when he does so."

Ferrymen Charged With Robbery. Preston F. Leroy, William Furber and George Ehring, three young men, were arraigned at the Police Court yesterday on a charge of robbery preferred against them by William Hunt, a baker on Ward's Island. The ferryboat that runs to Ward's Island stops at 7 o'clock in the avening.

These young men have been in the habit of carrying over belated passengers in a rowboat. Stories of robberies and maitreatment of women have frequently come to the ears of the police, but they have never been able to trace them to any definite actives.

Bource.

Last Sunday, however, this baker, who had a good-sized load of stimulants aboard, took passage with the young men. Next morning he missed his watch and chain and a laundry bundle.

He notified a policeman, who arrested the men. The baker could not identify the ferrymen. The prisoners, however, admitted ferrying him, but said that Hunt was beastly drunk. They denied robbing him. Judge Gorman held them for examination.

Police Captain Guatlin's Story. Police Captain Geo. W. Gastlin, of Pier A station, has written a remarkable story of " Iles Vail, the King of Confidence Men," for to-morrow's Evening World. Rosenberg, 179 Hudson street. It was her custom to spend the day there and have her husband call for her on his way home

Last evening when he failed to come home she became alarmed. Her brother.in.law went to her house to see if Simon was home.
When he reached the house he went up to Metzger's rooms on the top floor. He knocked on the door, but received no reply.
When he at length got in he found Simon lying on the floor with a piece of rope around his neck. The other end, where it had broken off, was attached to a step-ladder in the room.

The room.

An ambulance was called. The surgeon, after an examination, said that the man had been dead three hours. No cause other than temporary meanity is assigned for his act.

A note addressed to his wife was found on a table in the kitchen. It read as follows:

DEAR ROSY: I am in the store-room. Good-by, and to Sadie.

Suddenly the crowd broke and, with hands uplifted, made a rush for a well-known broker.

"Mercy sakes alive," screamed the stranger, "be they goin' to kill him?"

The innocence was too much for the gallery and a roar followed the earnest inquiry that drowned even the noise on the floor. Explanations followed, and though the situation was explained to the visitor she declared emphatically: "If that's the way business is done I don't wonder John didn't want to leave the farm."

BILLY PORTER IN TROUBLE AGAIN. Inspector Byrnes's Men Think that He i

Under Arrest in Paris. The opinion in Inspector Byrnes's bureau at Police Headquarters is that the leader of the five American thieves who were arrested yesterday for committing depredations on the Paris jewellers and bankers is Billy Porter, a Boston boy, who has figured extensively in this country in all sorts of crime, including two murders.

When Jake Kilrain went to England to fight Jem Smith, one of the first men to join the company of fighters as a strong partisan of Kilrain was Billy Porter, and reports were frequent of banks being swindled, jewelry stores robbed and other depredations, which were laid at the door of Boston's shrewd thief.

thief.

Porter left London at the time, and was last heard from in Paris, where Inspector Byrnes was informed that he was accompanied by three or four sharp thieves and confidence operators.

THO THE BASHFUL AND THE BASHLESS SEND The Fighting Parson Wos.

[Urbana (O.) Despatch to Chicago Tribune.] An unusual and exciting scene took place last night at the close of the services in the Protestant might at the close of the services in the Protestant Episcopal Church, known as Jerkins Chapel, near Cable, this county. While the exercises were in procress Richard Darnell, a burly ruralist, entered the church and took a seat in the front row. He immediately commenced annoying both the preacher and congregation by coughing, backing and m king unnecessary noise until the jastor, the Rev. J. F. Frederick, politely asked the disturber to quit the caurch for the evening. Darnell paid but little attention to the pastor's injunction and continued. The services over, both men met at the door. Darnell accosted the prescher, saying: "Do you know what I think of you?" to which Mr. Frederick repiled hat he was not very particular what his opinion of him was. "Well," said Darnell, "I think you are a ———. "The words had no sooner passed Darnell's lies then the inaignest minister landed a terrific biow in Darnell's face which sent him to the floor. "The words had no sooner passed Darnell's lines then the indignant minister landed a terrific blow in Darnell's face which sent him to the floor. Darvell, mad and furious, sprang to his feet and was ready for another round. The presurer was in good condition and did not lose any time in displaying his science in the manly art, but again fromptly knocked his antagonist down. Darnell came up for the third round and the preacher was ready to meet him. In sporter order than before he sent his man to the floor, and when the latter picked himself up he arrived at the when conclusion that he had and enough, and the Rev. Frederick was awarded the honors. Time, one minute. Mr. Frederick is an estimable and scholarly gentleman, and ready when necessary to defend himself. His friends have had a warrant issued for Darnell's arrest.

think, has this week been the new wife of Berry Wail, the King of the Dudes. The pair have been to theatres nightly, they dine and sup at Delmon-lco's and they keep pretty generally in public view. Mrs. Wail is not beautiful, but she has a delicate, Mrs. Watl is not beautiful, but she has a delicate, reened face, a good, tall figure and a very distinguished air. The strange fact about her is that her toilets show none of the accuracy and care which are seen in the sparel of her celebrated husbant. Her gowns have a stylish cut, and are evidenily made by some clever maker; she wears them with some of the p curcaqueness of an actress; but there is a slouchiness about them which one might suppose would grieve her spick-and-span spouse. You could search the visible fabrics on Berry with a magnifying glass without discovering a blemish, but as I sat behind his bride I saw that her gloves were soiled, her bonnet we sof unsessonable straw. but as I sat beamed his order I saw that her gioves were solled, her bonnet was of unseasonable straw, her collar was pinned awry, one button at the back of her dress was missing, and altogether she isothed that scruppions a licety of detail which, seemingly, the King of the Dudes would exact in his wife.
